scusami but I do not share at all.
The 164 ADVANCED E' To 159!!!!!!!???????

I possess 520i a E34, ovvero the bmw of reference for the 164, the comparison I am SIMPLY IMPIETOSO, motor to part. mine has 300k km and still the assemblages and the materials hold, the 164 with the same mileage to level of state car more are adapted in order make the cages us for the chicks that in order to go to us in turn.
raga we speak about 2 cars qualitatively very various!!

the 159 instead seem resist more than well the comparison with series 3 e90

I have said in proportion... not in absolute

the deprecabile part of the 164, not memory the q4, was the steering and in part the stability

I by far prefer the first series without the orpelli aerodynamic of the QV and Q4, that I have always judged heavy and cmq too much assolutamente not harmonic with the rest of the most successful design 😄

On the rest, I repeat myself, not plus ultra perhaps x the Italian production, but sure it could not (and it did not want) to be confronted with car like M5, impietoso result!!!

Staggering But I do not let go steering and posterior bridge in the first series, disadvantages resolved in satisfactory way to aim 1990 with the introduction of the V6 Turbo and modifications to front chassis and bridge...

Before the 3000 when you open us to you wanted arms from truck driver x to hold it straight 😊

I have said in proportion... not in absolute

and in fact I spoke just in proportion!!!!

the 164 were absolutely imparagonabile (if not in the motors) to series 5 and mb then.

I repeat, I would not change mine 520i with 164 I lack for dream, while hour I prefer 159 to series 3 totally for it gets passionate you to it of music!!!! www.vieuxcarre.it
